Madrid in Detail

Insight #1:

Out of the 21 districts in Madrid, which district has the most deaths?

From the Madrid in Detail dashboard, navigate to the City Map dropdown selection to filter Madrid by District which generates the graph to the right. From the "Deaths" panel the district with the highest deaths was revealed to be "Caranbanchel" at 2,175 deaths.

Insight #2:

What neighborhood in Madrid has the least amount of births?
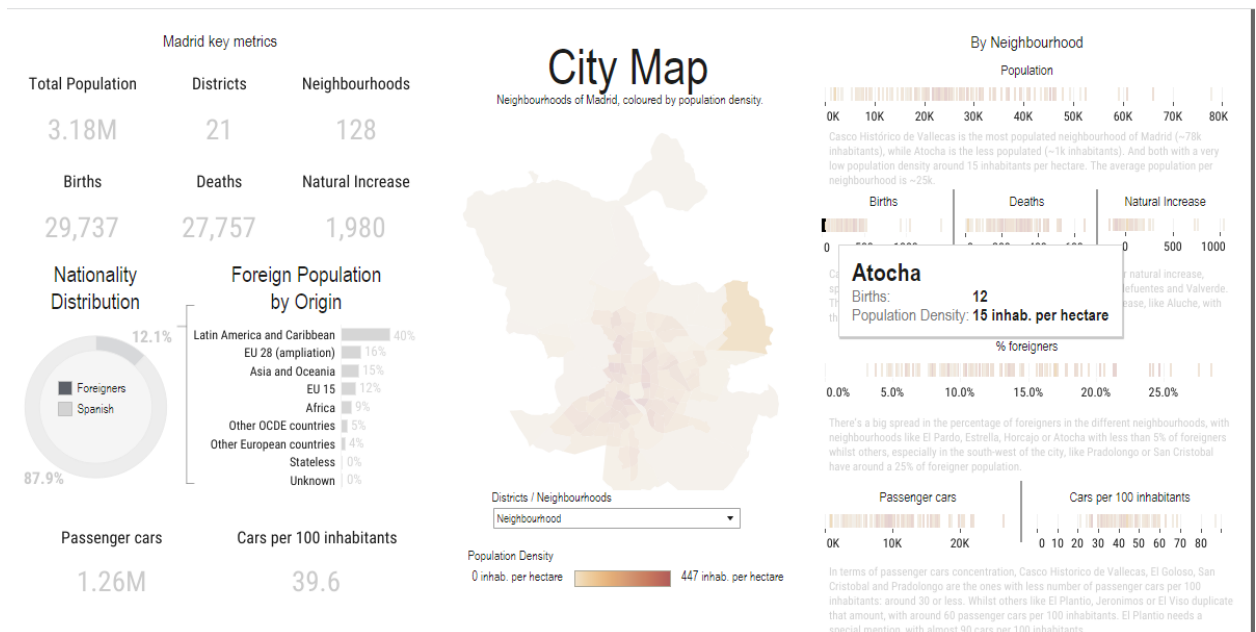

Utilizing the same dashboard, navigate to the City Map dropdown selection to filter Madrid by Neighborhood. By selecting from the "Births" panel the neighborhood with the least number of births has been revealed to be "Atoche" standing at 12 births.

Insight #3:
What percent of the most populated District are made up of foreigners?
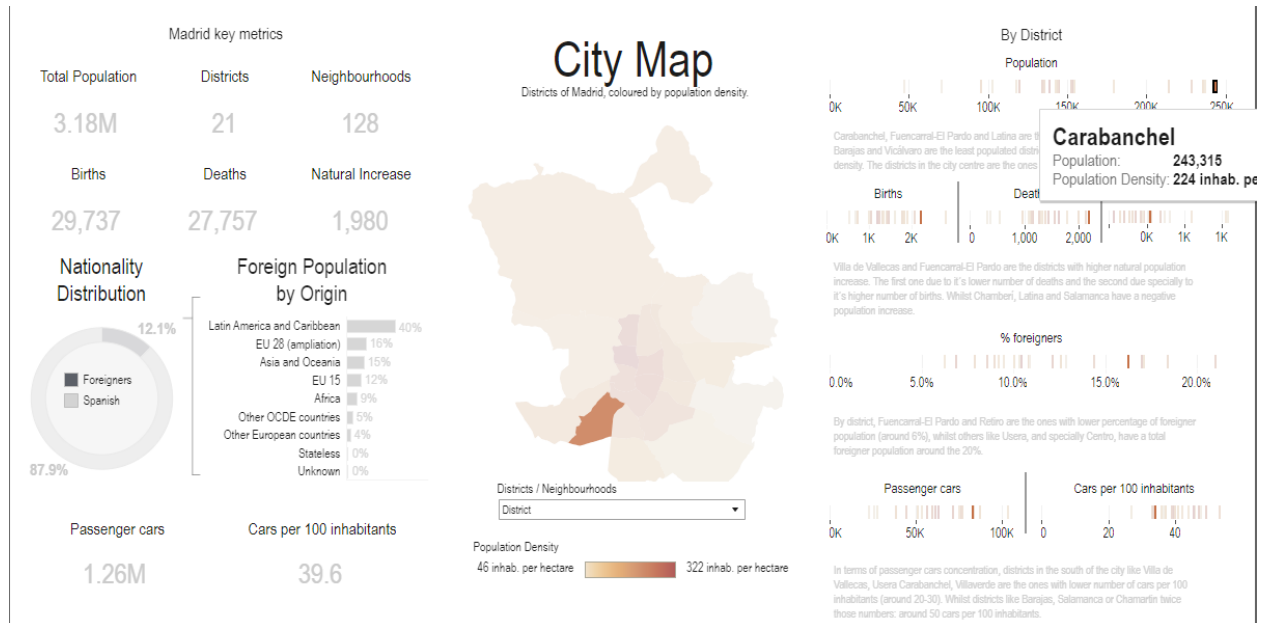

By selecting "District" from the City map dropdown, I am now able to choose the highest populated district from the "Population" panel located in the "District" graph. Which shows that the most populated district in Madrid is "Carabanchel" with a population of 243,315.

Madrid key metrics

Total Population	Districts	Neighbourhoods
3.18M	21	128

Births	Deaths	Natural Increase
29,737	27,757	1,980

Nationality Distribution

- Foreigners 12.1%
- Spanish 87.9%

Foreign Population by Origin

Latin America and Caribbean	40%
EU 28 (ampliation)	16%
Asia and Oceania	15%
EU 15	12%
Africa	9%
Other OCDE countries	5%
Other European countries	4%
Stateless	0%
Unknown	0%

Passenger cars	Cars per 100 inhabitants
1.26M	39.6

City Map
Districts of Madrid, coloured by population density.

Districts / Neighbourhoods: District

Population Density: 46 inhab. per hectare — 322 inhab. per hectare

By District

Population
0K 50K 100K 150K 200K 250K

Carabanchel, Fuencarral-El Pardo and Latina are the most populated districts, whilst Barajas and Vicálvaro are the least populated districts and the ones with lower population density. The districts in the city centre are the ones with higher population density.

Births Deaths Natural Increase
0K 1K 2K 0 1,000 2,000 0K 1K 1K

Villa de Vallecas and Fuencarral-El Pardo are the districts with higher natural population increase. The first one due to it's lower number of deaths and the second due specially to it's higher number of births. Whilst Chamberí, Latina and Salamanca have a negative population increase.

% foreigners
0.0% 5.0% 10.0%

Carabanchel
% Inmigrants: 16.2%
Population Density: 224 inhab. per hectare

By district, Fuencarral-El Pardo and Retiro are the ones with lower foreign population (around 6%), whilst others like Usera, around 20%.

Passenger cars Cars per 100 inhabitants
0K 50K 100K 0 20 40

In terms of passenger cars concentration, districts in the south of the city like Villa de Vallecas, Usera Carabanchel, Villaverde are the ones with lower number of cars per 100 inhabitants (around 20-30). Whilst districts like Barajas, Salamanca or Chamartín twice those numbers: around 50 cars per 100 inhabitants.

id-in-detail.twbx

Show all

Navigating to the "% foreigners" panel of the "District" graph reveals that the percentage of the population in "Carabanchel" is made up of 16.2% foreigners.